

Middlesex Canal

BROUHAHA MAY BE SETTLED

The argument over the old Middlesex Canal, which at times has an aspect of being regarded as a personal vendetta in the Town Hall, may be settled today, in the State House.

Counsel for both sides in the dispute - Town Counsel Philip Buzzell, and former Town Manager Joseph F. Courtney agreed yesterday morning, in the Town Hall that it is possible to draw up a satisfactory agreement which will meet the demands of both sides.

J. Worthen Taylor, of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health was present for the discussion and termed the proposed agreement as satisfactory to his department.

Mr. Buzzell is to prepare an agreement which will stipulate that the town will take by eminent domain that portion of the land of Mrs. Stanley Webber which has not been donated to the Wilmington Historical Society for the purpose of preserving the old Middlesex Canal; and that an 'easement' will be prepared for the rest of the property, so that the Water Department can use it, and at the same time the Historical Society will have access.

Buzzell, Taylor, Town Manager Gerald Bouchard and Harold Melzar, Chairman of the Water Commissioners will be among those officials who will be present in the State House, at 10 am today, to report on the agreement to the Committee on Water Resources.

Under Instructions

The Town and officials of the Historical Society were instructed Monday morning, by the Chairman of the Committee on Water Resources, Senator William K. Wall, of Lawrence, that an attempt should be made to reach an agreement, and to report that agreement Thursday morning to the Committee.

Monday's Hearing

Monday's Hearing, held in the State House, found Town Manager Bouchard and the Board of Water Commissioners adamant in their belief that the town had to take the entire property by eminent domain, and at the same time found Atty.

Courtney proposing essentially the program to which the town agreed yesterday morning, through its attorney.

Representative Fred Cain, who introduced the speakers at the hearing recorded himself in favor of the taking. A strange note in the meeting was the appearance of another legislator, Rep. Warren Turner, of Lee, who recorded himself in favor of the proposed bill, because of a water problem in his own town.

Bouchard spoke on both sides, i.e., in the time that was allocated for the proponents (in favor of taking the land by eminent domain) and the opponents (against taking the land).

He told the Committee that the town had voted last March to take the land by eminent domain, in an unanimous vote, that the town's water supplies were badly in need of additional resources, and that this area was estimated to be capable of providing another 2.5 million gallons a day. The inability of the town to acquire the entire property, Bouchard said, was holding up work for the new supply.

Bouchard testified that he was aware that the old Middlesex Canal was on the property, and maintained that the proposed use for water supplies would not damage the canal. He criticized the deed conveying the property to the Historical Society.

Courtney told the Committee that there was 'no barrier' to the use of the land by the Water Department, and that the offer of the Historical Society to allow the land to be used still stood.

The Society, he said, was anxious to preserve the canal, one of the few remaining segments of the oldest canal in the United States.

Refuting statements that have been made as to the purpose of the Historical Society, Courtney told the Committee that the society was organized before it was known that the Water Department was interested in the property. He also said that the society had offered the use of the land to the Water Department.

Stanley Webber was the only person who could locate the proposed site of the wells accurately. A

A REAL McCOY OF A PICKLE: Steven McCoy, of 20 Nickerson Avenue, had to have the help of Officers John Ritchie and Dick Jenkins, to get out of the pickle he got himself into, last Friday. After dismantling the fireplace the two officers had to break the flue into which Steven had become wedged.

previous statement that one of the wells was to be located in the canal bed was refuted by Mr. Webber, who showed both plans and photographs which demonstrated that the well site was 150 feet away.

Webby Hall's Fire

Almost a Social Evening

A fire in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Hall, on Linda Road, Monday evening, turned out to be an almost social evening for the neighborhood.

Mr. Hall was downstairs, in his study, about 9:30, when one of his daughters came downstairs and said she smelled smoke. Hall shooed the entire family out of doors, and called the Fire Department.

The fire trucks arrived in two minutes, to find that the children were already over to the home of their cousins - the Coombs family on Middlesex Avenue, and Webby was calmly pacing the lawn.

The firemen punched in an upstairs window, and the fire was out very shortly. There was extensive water and smoke damage.

Meanwhile dozens of neighbors had gathered, many in pajamas and nightgowns, with robes thrown over. Mrs. Hall returned, and, considering that it was all on the street, the neighborhood almost had a nice sociable evening.

Public Works Department needed, says TM

Town Manager Gerald Bouchard spent what was almost a bitter evening at the Finance Committee meeting, Monday night, instead of attending the meeting of the Board of Selectmen.

He expressed several times his bitterness against Selectmen Bender and Niles, blaming them for several items that he discussed with the board.

Bouchard told the Finance Committee that it is necessary for the town to have a Department of Public Works.

The Department, he said, should be 'implemented' as soon as possible. He pointed out that the various divisions of what would become a Department of Public Works are headed by men who will soon be reaching the age of retirement.

The town, he said, needs to get a bill before the legislature which would allow a referendum of the voters to establish a Public Works Department. He told the Finance Committee that it was the efforts of Mr. Bender which had stopped all action in this regard, in the past

This year we gave 223. It is our hope that they were worn with as much pleasure as they were given.

THE CAPTURE OF JEFFERSON DAVIS

According to promise, I dismissed the guide, and he left us in a hurry. We found here a poor plantation and a little forage, which we appropriated from the owner. I inquired where the wagon party had gone; he did not know, but thought they had crossed Gum swamp, and that the rains had so raised the water that it would be impossible for us to get through. 'Get your horse,' I said, 'and guide us through to the other side of the swamps and we will go, otherwise we shall stay and eat you out of house and home.'

He then quickly got his horse and led the way through the swamp, where the water for miles was up to the saddles.

Dismissing this guide, we pushed on through those dense woods, over a fairly plain track until darkness compelled us to halt for the night.

During the night there came up a terrible storm of wind, rain, thunder and lightning, and, as if to add to our already discomfort, several great trees came down with a crash in our near vicinity, but our weariness was such that we were disturbed but for a moment.

As soon as it was light enough to see, on the morning of May 9th, we pushed on in a southeast direction, until we struck the Ochemulgee river, the same we had crossed before at Macon.

Continuing down the river some distance, we came to a ferry. By our haste to get over, the boat was damaged so that only a half load of horses could be taken over at a time. This delayed us a couple of hours, then we pushed on a few miles to a little town called Abbeville.

By inquiring, we learned that a party with wagons had passed through the town during the night and they had gone towards Irwinsville. We halted and fed our horses and then started on the road towards Irwinsville.

Just as we were moving out we saw four soldiers in United States uniform, coming down the road from the north. They informed me they belonged to the Fourth Michigan Cavalry, Lieutenant-Colonel Pritchard commanding, and that the regiment was near at hand.

Sending on our detachment under Lieutenant Clinton, I rode, accompanied by my orderly, to meet Colonel Pritchard. After introducing myself, I inquired if he had any news of Jeff Davis. He said he had not, but that he had been ordered with his regiment to Abbeville to patrol the river and to prevent Davis from crossing.

He also informed me that his orders were to encamp at Abbeville and guard the crossings of the Ochemulgee, and he gave me no intimation that he intended any other course. He had left Macon since I had, but up to this time had heard nothing of Davis.

As his errand was the same as mine, I thought it my duty to give him all the information in my possession, in regard to the movement of Davis. I told him that we had been on the track of Davis for three days, and that Davis with one party had crossed over the Ochemulgee during the night and gone towards Irwinsville, but there was a larger party of confederates who were somewhere the other side of the river.

He inquired if I needed any more men, I said not unless he could spare some rations as our party had next to nothing to eat. He said they had marched suddenly and had no rations.

Bidding him good-bye, my orderly, James Aplin, and I, left him and pushed on and overtook our party. We shortly came to the place where the Davis party had lunched. They had left so recently that their fires were still burning.

We continued to march on until dark, when coming to a swale where there was water and a little grass, we halted to rest and graze our horses. All we had for rations was a little damaged corn-meal. We lay down to rest for a spell, but before the break of day, we were in our saddles again.

At this time I felt confident that we were in the near proximity to the Davis party, and had only halted so as not to come upon them in the night. I expected that Davis would camp on the other side of a river ahead, and I thought if we attempted to cross the ford in the dark, Davis would take the alarm and escape.

May 10th, putting forward an advance guard of a sergeant, George Hussey, and six men, with instructions to keep a little ahead and to keep a sharp lookout for the enemy, we moved on.

We had made but a mile or so when our advance guard were fired upon suddenly, by what I judged to be twenty or thirty muskets.

Galloping forward at the head of ten men, I met the sergeant with his party coming back with several of his men wounded. He said they had run into the enemy's pickets and had been fired upon.

I directed the sergeant to follow and then dashed on, when we were met with another volley, so close that their fire came right in our faces, and the bullets rattled like hail on the trees.

I could just see the forms of the men on account of the darkness. Seeing that they were in considerable force and determined to stand their ground, I got my men into line and dismounting a part, we advanced on the enemy. After giving us a third volley we opened fire on them and they then retreated into a swamp.

It was now getting a little light. At this time a man called my at-

Who was Henry Harnden?

Who was Henry Harnden, the man who became a Brevet Brigadier of Wisconsin Cavalry?

By Wilmington reputation he was a boy who was raised in this town, and was born in Ballardvale. He was undoubtedly a member of the old Harnden family, first to settle in North Wilmington. This family furnished soldiers for the French War, the French & Indian War, the Revolution, and the War of 1812.

The Town Crier has devoted a considerable time to research in an effort to locate Henry Harnden and has compiled a genealogy of the family from the time of the marriage of Richard Harnden, on Oct. 24, 1666, through the first five generations, including those who emigrated to Connecticut in 1739.

General Harnden was not a descendant of that group, for he calls himself a 'Massachusetts Boy'.

There was a Henry Harnden born in Wilmington, but it was not General Harnden. This Henry Harnden was the man who owned the farm near the Glen Road school now the Joyce Farm, formerly the Neilson Farm.

The Town Crier intends to devote more research to the question.

The Selectmen's Meeting

$1 Tax

The Old Age Housing, 40 Apartments on Deming Way, will pay the Town of Wilmington $1 annually,
'in lieu of taxes'.An agreement was reached, Monday night, by the Board of Selectmen and James P. Donahue, Chairman of the Housing Authority.The agreement settled a long standing dispute, dating back four or five years.Fred Grimes, Principal Assessor of Wilmington, was asked to sit in on the discussions.For several years past the tax has been $83.60, this being the value of the meadow at this site, before the Old Age Housing project was built.Donahue opened the discussion by noting that the legislature had recently taken action to abate taxes for people over 70 years of age. He told the Selectmen that there were 56 people in the Old Age Project, with an average age of 76, and felt that the same courtesy could be extended to them.Grimes was of the opinion that the town was giving service, and should receive some remuneration.Selectman LaRivee was the first to speak. He felt that the Selectmen should enter into some kind of an agreement, either by waiver of taxes, or a token in lieu of taxes.When Selectman Niles heard that the sum was $83.60 he remarked that this wasn't much of a remuneration to the town. Lloyd Bender moved that the sum be $1 in lieu of taxes, and this was quickly and unanimously voted.Town Counsel Philip Buzzell is to be instructed to draw up the agreement.

Wentzell Taxi

Linwood Wentzell of Burnap St. appeared before the Board for the third week, this time requesting a taxi license. Following a brief discussion the Selectmen agreed that there was a license available and it was given to him.It was also agreed to revoke the public livery license which he had carried. Wentzell will be allowed to operate his two vehicles, one of them as a taxi, and one under a private livery license, authorization for which comes from the Retary of Motor Vehicles, and over which the town has no jurisdiction.

Anonymous Complaint

Perhaps jokingly the Selectmen referred to the Chief of Police any possible action that may be had as the result of an anonymous complaint regarding radio transmitters in automobiles.Rene LaRivee told his fellow board members that an anonymous complaint had said that 'real estate firms within the town were operating radio transmitters in theircars without being properly licensed'.

Licenses

Ames News Company and Twin-brook Dairy were granted a renewal of their licenses to operate.
Both applications were accompanied by favorable reports from the Board of Health and the Police Department. A third application (a restaurant) was not acted upon as the Board of Health was not in favor. This matter will be further discussed and the applicant will be asked to comply with the requests of the Board.

Jurors

Two jurors were drawn for the June 7 session of Cambridge
Court. Mildred E. Kelman of 156
Middlesex Avenue, and Mrs. Eleanor J. Smith of 639 Woburn Street.Mrs. Drew informed the Board that it needs a new jury list and suggested that this matter was becoming urgent. She requested that the members submit names as soon as possible.

Hearing

June 24 at 8:30 pm has been set as the date and time for a public hearing on the request of James Florenza to install a gas station at 361 Middlesex Avenue.
This property is between Polcaro Bros. and Photon.

Nichols Street Bridge

The Board received a letter from the B & M stating that extra heavy trucks were utilizing the Nichols Street Bridge. Authorities of the railroad requested that the local Police Department be instructed to look into the situation as the condition of the bridge would not accommodate vehicles weighing over six tons.Niles suggested that perhaps since this bridge is the only feasible access to the area the railroad should make an attempt to put it into condition for heavy trucking.

Bender Questions

Shortly before the Board voted to go into executive session for a discussion with Mr. Grimes, Mr.
Bender had several questions.What happened at the hearing this morning between the Board of Water Commissioners and the Historical Society?.....no answer.
What is the status of the availability of the high school auditorium for the pending sales tax debate?.. no answer. What is the status of the survey of dangerous and delap-tated buildings in the community which were supposed to be done by Mr. Anderson and the Fire Chief?
....no answer.

Delegate to Boy's State

munity projects, which should go toward making him a better citizen in his community.Paul Leverone, of Glen Road,

McGillicuddy to play at First for Tradesmen

Don McGillicuddy, formerly the property of the San Francisco Giants will be playing first base for Wilmington this summer in the Carling Intercity League.

McGillicuddy played for Wilmington Manager Jim Tighe in Reading, last year, where he led the team in runs, hits, average, RBIs, doubles, triples, home runs and stolen bases. His .364 average and 7 home runs kept Reading in the thick of the pennant fight and the team finished second only to champion Winchester.

When Tighe purchased the Wilmington franchise, one of the first players he contacted was McGillicuddy. The Reading native, who is now a teacher in the Stoneham school system, had played ball, earlier, for Reading High School, Lawrence Academy and Brandeis University before signing a bonus contract with San Francisco.

After three years in the Giant farm system where he averaged .290, he called it quits to return to Brandeis for his Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Education.

Mac has been stinging the ball in recent Sunday workouts in preparation for the Tradesmen's opening game at Waterbury, Conn., on May 16th. Last Sunday, he lined a drive over the top of a car parked on the roadway in deep right field at the high school to serve notice on opposing teams that this may be a long, hot, summer.

ED SULLIVAN CONFINED

He has appointed Lee Campbell, 20 Clark Street, Fire Warden for Avco, and Arnold F Lanni, a teacher, of Reading Avenue, to the Conservation Commission; James J Durkee, 500 Salem Street, a pharmacist, to the Board of Health; Willis C Lyford, of the Nichols Funeral Home, to the Board of Cemetery Commissioners; and Joseph B McMahon, retired banker, to be a Trustee of Trust Funds for a period of three years.

Appointed to the force of police women and traffic supervisors was Patricia A Howlett, of 7 Gowing Road, for a period of one year.

Elbert Hubbard, Little Journeys

When you see a new Reading Municipal Light Department installation, sub-station or heavier cable being installed on poles or under the ground, we are not just spending money to keep the rates up, this is a planned mathematical expansion based on the need of you, our Home-maker and business customer. Money for this is provided out of earnings from the sale of electricity, a portion of which we save each year to pay for the added needs of you and your neighbors. The projection for this constant increased planning is on a ten year advance basis. The need for the expansion and spending of these funds is audited by no less than four other experts to protect your interest, our own firm of Certified Public Accountants, the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, the U.S. Federal Power Commission and the Commonwealth's State Auditor. Planning on the last 10 year projection was done by an expert engineer from a private power company interested only in providing the expansion that is really needed.

This is our job — to make life pleasant and worthwhile for you. The daily lives of the Reading Municipal Light Department's Commissioners, Management and its entire operation and administrative personnel to this end is sincerely dedicated.

DO YOU KNOW?

That the Reading Municipal Light Department is a taxpayer just as any other individual in the Towns of Lynnfield, North Reading and Wilmington. All of the Reading Municipal Light Department's equipment installed in your town and used to serve you is assessed and taxed. This is of course as it should be, in fact, we think your Tax Collectors really like us when we send them a nice large check.

HUNDREDS AT CAIN TESTIMONIAL

JUDGE CULLEN SPEAKING: From Left: Jack Harvey of the Probate Court, Senator Long, General McLaughlin, Judge Cullen, Mr and Mrs Cain, Robert Crane, State Treasurer; and Thaddeus Bucko, State Auditor.

WITH BURLINGTON FRIENDS: L to R: House Speaker Jack Davoren, Selectman Jack Kilmartin, Selectman Charles Shea, Selectman Robert Vigneau, Chairman of the Democratic Town Committee, Fred and Anne Cain; Frank Sarno, and Water Commissioner Tim Cosgrove.

Fred F Cain, Wilmington's legislator in the General Court, representing Burlington, Wilmington and two wards of Woburn, was the recipient of a rousing reception Tuesday night, in Caruso's Diplomat, in Saugus.

About 600 dignitaries and friends were present for the festivities which accorded honors both to Fred and Anne Cain. A substantial check was given to Mr Cain, to assist in his campaign expenses.

Heading the list of dignitaries who spoke were Thaddeus Buczko, State Auditor; Robert Q Crane, State Treasurer; John F X Davoren Speaker of the House, and Chief of Police Thomas Maguire of Woburn.

Alllick Epstein, Wilmington chairman of the Fred Cain Committee, brought down the house with a simple remark in which he said "If I had an Irish name I might get into politics too!"

Justice Francis P Cullen of the Woburn District Court was the toastmaster, and introduced the head table.

Seated at the head table for the roast tenderloin dinner were; Selectman Robert Vigneau, Chairman of the Burlington Democratic Committee; James McLaughlin, Chairman of the Wilmington Democratic Committee; Rep. Francis Bevilacqua of Lawrence, Chairman of the Committee on Counties, in the Legislature; John Dever, Chairman of the Middlesex County Commissioners; John Harvey, Clerk of the Middlesex Probate Court; Senator James Long, 7th Middlesex District; General Richard McLaughlin, Registrar of Motor Vehicles; and Rep. Robert Quinn, Minority Leader of the House.

WILMINGTON FRIENDS: From left, around table: Mr and Mrs William Cavanaugh; Mr and Mrs Paul Farrell; Mr and Mrs Anthony Del Rossi; Mr and Mrs Ralph DeLisle, and Mr and Mrs Frank Santo.

Also Selectman Charles Shea of Burlington, Chairman of the Fred Cain Testimonial Committee; Selectman Mrs Wavie Drew of Wilmington; Rep. George Cantanionis of Woburn; Senator Joseph Ward of Worcester; Rep. Denis McKenna, 3rd Middlesex District; Thaddeus Buczko, State Auditor; Rep. John Davoren, Speaker of the House; Monsignor George V. Kerr, Chaplain of the House, Judge Cullen, and Mr and Mrs Cain.

A number of legislative dignitaries were seated at the tables, including Rep. Frank Tanner of Reading, and Rep. Stanley Bocko of Billerica, and Rep. Louis Buttigieri of the First Suffolk District.

The speech making was kept short. Only House Speaker Davoren spoke more than a few words. Among the tributes paid Mr Cain were: Thaddeus Buczko: "He reflects credit for a job well done"; Robert Crane: "The people of Burlington, Wilmington and Woburn should be congratulated!" and Tom Maguire: "Over the years he has been very active in civic affairs in this area - a great man!"

Mrs Cain was presented a bouquet by Mrs Alllick Epstein.

Of the Cain children, only son George, away at school, was unable to be present. Son James, who was one of those presented, drew probably the heaviest applause from the guests.

'WIDE OPEN' ENLISTMENT POLICY IN AIR FORCE

TSgt. Richard T. Aldrich, local Air Force Recruiter, of 89 Appleton Street, Lowell, has announced that the United States Air Force now has a 'Wide Open' policy for the enlistment of prior servicemen, from any branch of military service, into some 241 career fields.

In addition to this new policy a prior serviceman can be guaranteed an assignment to one of the electronic schools (aircraft warning equipment, radio relay equipment, navigational equipment, radar systems, etc.) if he can meet the qualifications.

Up to this time, the Air Force has had a somewhat 'closed policy' and recruiters were restricted to enlisting only certain individuals in the prior-service category.

Many former servicemen who have previously tried to enlist, but were not on the 'needed list' should now re-apply at their local Air Force recruiting office. Those who have not applied previously should inquire about this new program. In many instances prior servicemen may enlist in the grade they held at time of last separation from the service.

Letters

Dear Larz:

Thank you for publishing that very fine letter from Mr. William E. Dunham, a concerned citizen. I would like to criticize your 'We'll stick to Wilmington.' You know Wilmington is still a part of the United States of America; and what affects our nation, must, of necessity, affect Wilmington. There are many apathetic people in Wilmington who should be awakened to find out what's going on in our country. Who are the 'others' that you would like to leave this to? I hope that Mr. Dunham's letter may cause other Wilmington residents to become informed and interested in the progress the Communists are making in their conquest of the world as outlined by Lenin many years ago.

Yours sincerely,
Ruth E. O'Neill

Dear Larz,

Fred F. Cain has made a number of interesting suggestions for the replacement of the present Town Manager (T.M.). His first suggestion, namely, that only a town resident be considered for TM may be a good qualification, however, not a necessary one. Consider the situation of the TM who has to make decisions which in some cases effect the pocketbooks of some of the residents. Political pressure such as applied recently in the case of the present TM can be almost unbearable. If personal friendships are involved, the decisions of the new TM will be even more difficult.

To say the least, the latter situation may result in a small group of individuals controlling Wilmington.

In my opinion, the Board of Selectmen has done an above average job in selecting Town Managers. The latest, Mr. G. Bouchard, was certainly an exceptional find. While in office, Mr. Bouchard was firm. He made decisions (and good ones) and above all he had the majority of Wilmington in mind whenever a difficult situation arose.

Although he may not have endeared himself to a number of individuals or groups, his decisions were for the best interests of the overall body of Wilmingtonites.

The second suggestion of Mr. Fred F. Cain pertained to lower taxes. If Mr. Cain of Wilmington is so interested in reducing the town taxes why doesn't he suggest some areas where money can be saved or additional funds be raised.

In the latter case, for instance, if he and some other local business establishments would try to beautify their particular places of business, perhaps outside businesses may be more interested in coming to Wilmington.

It is very disconcerting while driving past the F. Cain Chrysler-Plymouth Auto Showroom (on one side of Rte. 38-129) and have to observe on the other side a junkyard full of wrecked cars. For that matter, the Ford or General Motor repair shops on Route 38 are not going to win any prizes as showplaces, either.

Other local business such as Photon, Greer, Sweetheart Plastics, Avco, etc., take pride in keeping a neat appearance and will attract other light industrial concerns.

In conclusion, although Mr. F. Cain has some interesting thoughts on our new TM and tax rates, it would be more useful to the Town of Wilmington if our Selectmen and members of the various Committees and Boards did some soul searching and made decisions on the basis of what is good for Wilmington rather than how to promote themselves or endear themselves to small pressure groups.

Yours truly,
Henry E. Hoercher

St Thomas Rectory

May 11, 1965

Dear Larz:

It is because many of us have looked at both sides of the coin that our support goes to Dr. King and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Evidence: he has emerged as the voice of one crying in the wilderness to correct the wrongs and injustices we have inflicted on a large segment of the American people. He has been recognized internationally through the Nobel Prize for peace.

He has earned the respect of all thinking decent Americans. Just recently, on Easter Sunday, Richard Cardinal Cushing, who has never been accused of being soft on Communism, directed that a letter be read in all the Catholic Churches of the Boston Archdiocese welcoming Dr. King to the community. He also encouraged his faithful to take an active part in the civil rights movement.

It should also be mentioned that Dr. King is a Christian. It is called the Christian Leadership Conference.

We can be so intent on looking for Communists that we lose perspective and no longer recognize a true Christian. The movement is based on love. This is a true sign of Christian Witness, not hate mongering.

I find it hard to believe that 400 priests and ministers were duped into listening to Dr. King at St. John's Seminary when he came to Boston, not to mention the Governor and the Legislature.

Things can get pretty silly can't they? Mr. Dunham mentions that 20 million negroes in the U.S. constitute the largest single racial target of the Communist Party USA.

Quite true. But these 20 million negroes have not fallen for Communism, rather Dr. King teaches them love and non-violence. Has Christianity so degenerated that its true spirit is no longer recognized?

Mr. Dunham mentions Congressman Dickinson of Alabama who supposedly stated that the Communists put up the money for the Montgomery March. He, by the way, is the same Congressman from Alabama, who, after this canard failed to get action, 'splashed mud all over the House floor' as Time put it. 'But only Dickinson got dirty'. In Congress he accuses the marchers of having a 50 mile sex orgy. His mind never got out of the gutter for a solid hour. His charges were ridiculed by all responsible newspapermen who covered the March, by clergymen (who are not blind to sin) and even by Selma's Public Safety Director Wilson Baker. So much for Congressman Dickinson.

Mr. Dunham states that it is precisely because of his concern for the welfare of the American Negro that he and thousands of other Americans are trying to expose the way the communists are exploiting our fellow citizens.

Again, THE COMMUNISTS. Once and for all, let's be honest. Let's open our eyes wide, let's use our minds, let's look at the facts squarely:

The only ones exploiting our negro citizens are those who will not allow them to vote, will not give them a first class education, will not allow them to move and live where they want.

I submit to Mr Dunham that we have exploiters in this area. Let the FBI and other trained, rational government agencies weed out Communists.

There is something we can do: we can educate our exploiters, we can make it possible for men of all races, and creeds, to live harmoniously, in Wilmington.

A Fair Housing Committee is in the process of formation with its first meeting on Thursday May 13th at the Methodist Church.

All men of good will are invited. Action, especially non-violent, always speaks louder than words.

Sincerely,
Rev. Paul W. Berube, Assistant

JEFFERSON DAVIS

tention to about one hundred mounted men who were coming down on our left flank.

He said, 'Colonel, there is more than a hundred of them coming.' I said, 'Never mind boys, we will whip them yet.'

Directing Sergeant Horr, with ten men of Company A, to pursue the party who had fired on us first and retreated, and not to let them rally, I next turned my attention to the new comers who were between us and the light. The new comers opened fire on us as they approached.

Forming a line facing the approaching enemy, we opened upon them with our repeating rifles, (Spencer carbines). They were soon thrown into confusion.

I had left part of my men under Lieutenant Clinton, mounted, seeing that the enemy were in confusion, I now ordered Clinton to prepare for a sabre charge. Two of the men hearing me and understanding I had ordered the charge, drew their sabres and putting spurs to their horses, dashed at the enemy.

I called them back not being quite ready, as I wanted to give our footmen time to replenish their magazines. Just as I was about to give the final order to charge, Sergeant Horr came running up and said we were fighting Union men. That he had captured one of them and thus ascertained the fact.

At hearing this I rode in front of our line and shouted to 'stop firing,' which soon ceased on both sides.

Riding forward, the first man I met was Colonel Pritchard. So surprised was I that for some time I could not realize that it was Colonel Pritchard, but as soon as I knew him, I asked him how it was that he was there fighting us.

He explained that after parting with me the day before, at Abbeville, twenty-five miles distance, and ascertaining from me that Davis had already got across the river and finding that there was another road to Irwinsville, he had selected one hundred and fifty of his best men, well mounted, and by marching all night had arrived at Irwinsville before daylight.

Hearing that a party with wagons was camped out a little ways from the town, he had marched out toward it, guided by a negro. He had sent twenty-five men around to the back of the camp, and it was these men who had mistaken us for enemies, had fired upon us so recklessly with such unfortunate results.

He said some of his men had just taken possession of the camp, which was only about fifty yards away. I inquired if Jeff Davis had been captured. He answered that he did not know who had been captured, as he had not been to the camp himself.

In this unfortunate affair, two of the Michigan men were killed, one officer and several men wounded. Of the Wisconsin men three were wounded but none were killed.

Colonel Pritchard and I rode into the Davis camp together, which was just across a little swale, only a few rods from where our skirmish took place. The first person we saw in the camp was Mr. John H. Reagan, the Postmaster-General of the late Confederacy, lately the United States Senator from Texas.

He said, 'Well, you have taken the old gentleman at last.' I said, 'Who do you mean?' He said, 'I mean President Davis.' 'Please point him out,' said I. 'There he stands' said he, pointing to a tall elderly and rather dignified looking gentleman, standing a short distance away.

We rode up, dismounted and saluted, and I asked if this was Mr. Davis.

'Yes,' he replied, 'I am President Davis.'

At this the soldiers set up a shout that Jeff Davis was captured. Up to this time none of the men who actually arrested him, knew that he was Jeff Davis. One soldier said, 'What! that man Jeff Davis? That's the old fellow that when I stopped him had his wife's shawl on.'

About this time we, that Mr. Davis, Colonel Pritchard and myself were the center of a circle, composed of soldiers and others of the Davis party. In the background some soldiers set up a song: 'We will hang Jeff Davis on a sour apple tree,' to the tune of John Brown, which did not add to his comfort in the least.

In the camp were two tents and eight ambulances, each drawn by four mules. There were also several fine saddle horses. Besides Jeff Davis, there were Mr. Reagan, Colonel Harrison, Mrs. Davis, her sister, Miss Howel, and a number of rebel officers from Johnston's army and a lot of teamsters, servants and others, but no fighting men.

It appears that when the fighting began, Mr. Davis was sleeping in his tent. Alarmed at the noise, he hastily arose and threw a shawl, or dressing-gown around him, and started out, but meeting a soldier, was stopped and ordered back into his tent.

It was some time before he could understand what had happened. He heard the noise of the sharp skirmish, and saw the dead and wounded brought in, and knowing that he had no fighting men with him, he could not understand what it meant, until explained to him afterwards.

I entered into conversation with him, but with poor satisfaction to him or to me. I would not call him Mr. President, but always addressed him as Mr. Davis, which seemed greatly to annoy him, and he retallied by speaking of 'your government,' with the greatest contempt.

Isaid to him that I came very near making his acquaintance back in Dublin, three days before, and if he had fulfilled his engagement to dine with Judge Rose, that I should have done so.

Upon this, he turned on me with great hauteur and said: 'Well, sir, I can assure you that if you had made my acquaintance then, this thing would not have happened as it has. I had those with me then, who would not have permitted this indignity to have been put upon me, and it was well for you, sir, that you were not in time to see me then.'

I replied, that it would have afforded me pleasure to have met his friends and tried the question with them. Every few moments he would turn away from me, but he would soon come back to the tilt again. He wanted to know if my government authorized me to harass women and children through out the country in the manner I was doing. I replied no, that I was not after women and children, but I was sent after him.

Then his wrath arose again, and he poured out a torrent of abuse against my government, which was treating him with such indignity.

While conversing with him I saw a cask of brandy pitched out of an ambulance and the head was soon knocked in and the soldiers were running from all parts, with cups and canteens, so I called Colonel Pritchard's attention to it, and said it ought to be stopped, as there might soon be trouble over it. The Colonel went over and tried to stop it, but with poor success, I suspect, as the condition of the soldiers soon showed.

Mr. Davis seeing the way things were being thrown out of the wagons turned to me and inquired which of us was the ranking officer. As rank depended upon the date of our commissions, and we were both Lieutenant-Colonels, I replied that I did not know. He meant to inquire which of us was in command, but as he had been insolent, I did not propose to explain to him that we were two separate commands just come together.

He then turned to some Confederate officers and said that things had come to a pretty state of affairs when United States soldiers did not know who their commanding officer was, and that it was no wonder that the privates were plunderers and robbers.

After a little more talk, his wrath which had for sometime been rising, got completely the better of him, and then he turned his back upon me for the last time.

In speaking to his wife he blamed her for his being captured, for he said, if he had acted on his own judgement he would have been with the others of his party, and this thing would not have happened as it had.

It appeared that she had persuaded him to accompany her a little further than he had at first intended. Mrs. Davis took him by the arm and tried to pacify him. She told him 'never to mind him, that he was not worth minding.' She also said, as she was leading him away, that she hoped we would not irritate the President for someone might get hurt.

After making all allowance for the humiliating position in which Mr. Davis found himself placed at that time, I came to the conclusion that he was a greatly overrated man. His manner and all that he said, his blaming his wife and other circumstances, all went to show that he had no real nobility about him.

It appears that up to their arrival at Dublin, Mr. Davis was accompanied by his Cabinet officers and quite an escort of Texans, but they were separated, the main part going down the east side of the Oconee river, while the party of Mr. Davis crossed to the west side and were headed for Mississippi the home of Mrs. Davis.

Mr. Davis only intended to keep her company for a day or two longer, then leave her and make his way to General Kirby Smith in the lower Mississippi, and continue the war some longer.

In regard to what would have happened in case we had met Mr. Davis at Dublin, it is only problematical. The Wisconsin troops were veterans selected from one of the best regiments in the service, all well armed, mounted, and disciplined, while the Confederates although in greatly superior numbers, were disorganized and discouraged.

That they were brave men and desperate fighters, no one will dispute, but that the meeting did not take place, in my opinion, was well for Jeff Davis and his escort, for in the language of Mrs. Davis 'someone would have got hurt.'

As to the hoop-skirt story, I know but very little of it, but think it grew out of the remark by a soldier, that, when he stopped him, he had his wife's shawl on. As I saw nothing and heard nothing of any female apparel at the time I never took any stock in that story.

After resting for a short time and caring for the wounded and burying the dead, we all began our return march to Macon, where we arrived the day after, May 12, 1865.

I first made my verbal report to General Wilson and received from him his hearty approval of all we had done. We then heard that a reward of one hundred thousand dollars had been offered for the capture of Davis, a fact of which, up to this time, we Wisconsin men had been ignorant.

The reward offered for the capture of Davis was first awarded to the Michigan regiment, although the greater part of the regiment was twenty-five miles away at the time, but the great injustice of this was so apparent that Congress appointed a committee to investigate, and this committee reversed the award by giving to the men who were actually present, of both regiments, shares alike according to rank and pay.

General Wilson received a share equal to that of Colonel Pritchard and myself.

As the war was then over and Colonel Pritchard and myself were soon mustered out of service, no military court of inquiry was ever held to determine the responsibility of the collision which resulted so disastrously to several Union soldiers, but General Wilson says in his official report, that Colonel Harnden was in no way responsible as he had no means of knowing that the parties in his front were other than enemies.

Over thirty odd years have passed and gone since the event narrated above took place, and many of the participants have gone to their long homes, but the memory of the comrades are still fresh to me and growing dearer as time rolls on.

I will add one word more of tribute to their praise. For the whole seven days of the expedition, not one word of complaint or a murmur was heard, although marching under the burning sun or in the blinding rain, by day or night, with scarcely any food to eat, without rest, until it seemed as if human nature could stand no more; and yet, weary as they were, they were ready to face their enemies in battle, well knowing them to be more than two to one of themselves. Their only thought was, it is duty.

Board of Appeal Decisions

Board of Appeals decisions, handed down last week, included:

Case No 10-65, heard on March 16th. The Jackson Brothers with four lots in their new subdivision Forest Park, off Salem Street, having sufficient frontage and area but insufficient depth, requested variances for building permits.

There was no opposition. The board found that the relief would not derogate from the intent and purpose of the zoning by-law, and gave a favorable decision.

Ray York

The board denied to Ray York, of Shawsheen Avenue, the right to use half of his garage as an office. No abuttors appeared at the hearing on March 16th. The appeal was denied on the grounds that there is no provision in the Zoning By Law for the use of a garage as an office in a residential zone.

Bob Evans

The board denied to Bob Evans of Ballardvale Street a commercial parking lot, or garage, or service station, or salesroom, for new automobiles, or open lot parking for the sale of automobiles, new or used, or a salesroom for boats, trailers, trucks, farm implements, etc.

No abuttors appeared at the hearing.

The board felt that the appeal was too general in text, and that it would be impossible to cover all categories requested.

In the event that Mr Evans has a specific industry, the board said, that he would like to locate, it would be glad to entertain the possibility of authorization.

Joseph Sidlauskus

In case 12-65, heard on March 23rd, the board denied to Joseph Sidlauskus of 12 Browns Ave. W. Lynn, a variance for a building permit on a lot of First Avenue, in N. Wilmington.

The lot had insufficient frontage and area. Mr Sidlauskus told the board that it had a frontage of 71 feet and a depth of 152 feet, with an area of 10,687 feet. He wanted a sideyard of 10 feet for his home. Charles Allgrove, an abuttor, objected, as did others. Allgrove pointed out that the law calls for a 25 foot sideyard.

The board held that the request was detrimental to the zoning by-law.

Brookside Corporation

The Brookside Corporation appeal, on April 13th, case 16-65, to create three building lots on the Deacon's Curve on West St. found the board granting permission for two.

The lots were shown to be sufficient in area and frontage, but insufficient in depth.

The board held that the granting of two variances would not be detrimental to the purpose and intent of the zoning by-law.
